

How To Build A Perfect Relationship

Many people stay single because they do not know how to build a relationship well. Most of them are too afraid to take even a first move because of many reasons. It is either they may feel unconfident since it is their first experience or they are worried about making mistakes like in their past experience. Building a relationship is indeed not easy, but if you understand how it works and how to handle it, you sure will find a way to reach a perfect relationship together with your partner. Here, you will get guidance and tips on how to build a perfect relationship which can help you take the right moves to build a relationship.

What Relationship is About?

Relationship is about connection, which is built by two people. When you are in a relationship with someone, it means you both are close and have commitment. It may give you risks and also happiness. In a relationship, two people share their emotions and feelings through good and bad times. You don't receive only, but give as well. The outcome of relationship is based on how you build it. It will be a perfect long lasting relationship only if you and your partner can go together through good and bad times.

How to Start a Good Relationship?

Be confident

The number one reason that makes you feel difficult in starting a relationship is actually your own self! Many people are unconfident about themselves so that they are too afraid to take a first move. Well, if want to start a relationship and won't be single forever in your life, then you should be confident! It doesn't matter how your appearance may look, if you get the nerve to show the world who you really are, then people will be interested in you.

Show Your Talent/Ability

Showing your talent/ability can make people know you better. It does not mean you will show off everything in order to make him or her notice you. Make sure you really understand your talent/ability. Only show something that you are good at. You can start it from a simple way. For example, when you are good at joking, then you can crack some jokes to him/her. If you are good at playing musical instrument, you can show it. One thing you should remember is finding the right time to do it. Perfect timing certainly will help you so much.

Find Someone Who Has the Same Interests with You

When two people have the same interests, it will be easier to make a connection. That is why this thing is important for you. You can find a boy or girl who has the same hobbies or interests with you by visiting and looking into certain places. For example, when you are interested in journalism, you can join the journalism club. If you love books, then you may want to visit the town or school library for sure.

Talk and Introduce Yourself

After you find someone who is likely having same interests with you, you should talk to him/her. Just be yourself and do it naturally. You can start by saying hello or asking something about the activity that he or she has been doing. Then, you can start introducing yourself to take chit chat into a longer conversation. There are many things that can be discussed together since you two have the same interests, so just go on with it.

Don't Rush Relationship

Never rush into a relationship especially if you two have just known each other. That is just the beginning. Just let it flow. The most important thing is the communication between you and your crush is good.

Confess Your Feelings

After you and your crush have been close for a certain period of time, you will start to understand each other and even build chemistry. This time you may be ready enough to confess your feelings and talk about relationship. Be brave and firm when confessing your feelings, so that you will find out whether he or she has the same feelings with you.

How to Maintain Good Relationship

A good relationship takes lots of efforts. If you want to make sure your relationship is always good, you can apply some tips into it. The first is communication. Make sure you have good communication with your partner. Make time for your partner even in your busy days. If you don't have enough time to call, just send a message or chat. Next, be honest. Don't lie and hide important or suspicious things from your partner. It can lead to a misunderstanding which can make the problems worse. Never try to change your partner into your expectation. If you ask your partner to change himself/herself, just to make you happy, your partner may feel disappointed at you. If you want a change, then you can start it with yourself.

How to Spice Up Relationship

When you are together with your partner for a long time, your relationship may feel cold and even boring. This phase is actually very common, you don't need to worry about it. There are some tips that can help you spice up your relationship.

The first thing you can do is making a surprise for your partner. Give a little surprise to him/her at the perfect time can make your partner change his/her last impression of your relationship. Surprise does not always mean something big or expensive. A bouquet of flowers, a box of chocolate or a love letter can be a useful tool for it. Your sudden appearance at his/her special occasions like birthday party can make your partner love you more. In addition, you can also ask them to go to places you have never been to and spend your time there. If you only have a little time to do it, choose a romantic and cosy cafe or restaurant nearby. The most important thing is the quality time you both will have together.

